PUBLIC RELATIONS UPDATE

June 1, 2001, marked the official start of Hurricane Season. Tropical Storm Allison first struck the Gulf Coast on June 6 and dumped up to 40 inches of rain in parts of Texas and Louisiana. Before heading out to sea, Allison caused severe flooding in eight other states, including inland areas. About $650 million in flood insurance claims payments will help policyholders recover from this event.

In preparation for this year’s Hurricane Season, Howard Leikin, Deputy Administrator, conducted remote TV and radio interviews with various stations across the U.S. Since they hit the airwaves on May 31, the Hurricane Satellite and Radio Media Tours have generated nearly 650 television and radio broadcasts. Combined, these broadcasts reached more than 21 million viewers and listeners.

A new PR release is scheduled for national distribution in early July. It will describe the impact of Tropical Storm Allison and show that floods can happen nearly anywhere, underscoring the need for flood insurance. A mat story emphasizing the connection between hurricanes and flash flooding is also coming soon in August.

NATIONAL FLOOD CONFERENCE FOLLOW-UP

This year’s National Flood Conference in Minneapolis covered a myriad of topics from flood prevention to loss protection. It also provided a forum where policyholders, agents, and lenders could exchange ideas and ask questions about the National Flood Insurance Program.

In particular, Bozell Advertising, along with KRC Research and Westhill Marketing Sciences, presented intriguing research on the characteristics and motivations of potential flood insurance policyholders. For those who could not attend the conference or who missed the presentation, you can get a free copy of the presentation on how to target consumers by contacting Susan Belle at 212-727-5460.

NFIP CO-OP ADVERTISING PROGRAM

Due to overwhelming response and member participation, the NFIP Co-op Advertising Program is currently full. Therefore, we are not accepting applications for co-op program reimbursements at this time. However, you can still create compelling flood insurance ads on your own using all of the free customizable marketing materials available at http://www.fema.gov/nfip/coverii.htm#4.

Or send for hard copies by calling a co-op advertising manager at 1-800-564-8236. Stay tuned for updates on future membership opportunities!

All ads that already have been accepted/approved for this year’s program will still be reimbursed up to 50 percent. Be sure to send all tear sheets and reimbursement materials as soon as possible to: National Flood Insurance Program, c/o Bozell Worldwide, Properties Group; 40 West 23rd Street; New York, NY 10010.
